

A fine breeze with a touch of dampness filled the air this afternoon for the five Luders entries in our Sunday Series racing. The breeze started at about 17 knots from the SE and faded and clocked to the right as the afternoon went on. Courses were switched up every race and the starting line was always contentious. Many thanks to Bardy Roberts who set the drop marks and Nat Paine for helping out on Shearwater. Four races were completed before competitors retired to the fireplace (and watering fountain) at the Red Bird.
